High standards in sustainability: ESYLUX GmbH receives the EcoVadis silver medal

Increasing the energy efficiency of buildings, while at the same time conserving natural resources, is a key benefit of the intelligent automation and lighting solutions from ESYLUX. However, ESYLUX GmbH has also made significant improvements to sustainability within the company itself over recent years. This effort has now been acknowledged with the EcoVadis silver medal, meaning that ESYLUX GmbH is now among the top 15 percent of all companies rated.

The term sustainability is one of the defining keywords of our time. In an effort to go beyond just words and ensure that sustainability is actually put into practice, ever more companies around the world are undergoing assessments from the renowned independent rating agency EcoVadis. Now, ESYLUX GmbH has received the EcoVadis silver medal for the first time.

ESYLUX GmbH among the top 15 percent of all companies rated

The EcoVadis assessment focused on the themes of Environment, Labour and Human Rights, Ethics and Sustainable Procurement. In the Environment category, ESYLUX obtained the highest possible score. "Our automation and lighting solutions have always made a vital contribution to the energy efficiency of buildings", says Jan Göger, Head of Quality and Process Management at ESYLUX. "However, this award from EcoVadis also shows that we do more than just develop innovative products – we also focus on environmentally friendly and ethical practices."

As a result, ESYLUX GmbH stands among the top 15 percent of all companies rated by EcoVadis. One important basis for this successful development is the environmental management system used by ESYLUX GmbH in accordance with ISO 14001:2015. Furthermore, the company is committed to observing the ZVEI-VDMA Code of Conduct, which describes the principles and standards for responsible corporate behaviour.
